A QUIET POT.

Never in the history of this State has the fire under the political pot been so long in getting started. No doubt some one is sblitting kindlings and gathering shavings preparatory to starting the biaze, but up to date the water in the pot is motionless and no one knows why.

This is not a year when everything will be cut and dried and there seems to be a feeling everywhere that the party who wins must not expect to do so by the aid of past majorities and past prestige. Good men must be put up and there will be a general turning over.

The Republican party has a decided majority in this county and in this State, but it has not a sufficient majority either in State or county to trifle with public sentimrnt or go on the principle that a nomination means an election.

The discussion on the silver question brought out the fact that party ties did not hold a majority of the voters where material interests were concerned.

Democrats were ready to break over party lines and so were Republicans, if the occasion demanded. In fact both parties, during the silver discussion, found their lines in a badly demoralized condition, and not so easy to maintain as they had supposed, and both parties this fall will find that feality to the principles of the party will not guide voters if an unpopular man is put up.

A careful selection must be made of both State and county tickets, and anything like a star chamber proceedings will be repognant to the rank and file of

A LIVELY ATTACK.

Arthur McEwen, the well-known writer, is now engaged in writing syndicate letters to about a dozen California newspapers, thereby amassing money and reputation. Some weeks ago he wrote a scathing review of the characteristics of Leland Stanford. No paper to which he submitted his manuscript dared publish the article, until finally Arthur Kearney of the San Bernardino Courier printed it.

It was not an abusive article, but it was a thing that roasted Stanford to the very marrow, and we doubt if Stanford could gaiusay a single fact stated.

Now several papers have copied the article and the Eastern press is beginning to consider it. Among other things charged is that the famous twenty-million grant of the University is not an out and out gift, but the deed is so worded that it can be revoked at the pleasure of the giver, and that work only progresses on the buildings when Stanford wishes to boom himself politically.

It is also claimed that by the manipulation of adjacent real estate Stanford was enabled to clean up all his gift cost him and make money in the bargain, the so-called twenty-million price being an entirely fictitious valuation.

The fact of the matter is that the press of California has burnt Incense in front of the Stanford idel for several years, and Me-Ewen asserts that this incense has been paid for by Stanford every time the acolites waved the censor, and that the cost of the self glorification has all in all been about thirteen millions.

Stanford's enemies insinuate that a good deal of this money belongs to the C. P. stockhold-

When Stewart first took hold of Major Powell in Washington, the latter came up smiling and slipped out of Stewart's hands, and there was great joy among the Powellites. A person fighting with Stewart, however, never knows exactly when the fight is over, and so Powell found when Stewart got another hold and laid him on his back.
